FILIBUSTER IN CUBA HALTED FOR PRESENT

American Soldier of Fortune Tells Amazing Story of Fighting

ADVENTURERS WERE ENLISTED IN TEXAS

By WILLIAM H. PORT
(Copyright, 1931, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)
HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 27.—Six Americans, all participants in the battle of Gibrara last week and members of the small detachment of rebels left behind to hold the tunnel while the rest of the landing party made their escape, have arrived in Havana and from one of them, a former sergeant in the United States Marine Corps, The Chicago Daily News correspondent has obtained the first authentic eyewitness story of a most remarkable encounter.

The story of this former marine verifies in all important particulars the details of this battle which have appeared.

ADJOURN WAR
He also confirms the prediction that the rebels, after their decisive moves looking toward the overthrow of the present Government for a month or six weeks, at which time three large filibuster expeditions are to leave the United States for Cuba.

Meanwhile, according to his story, the small bands of rebels already organized are to do what they can to worry the Federal troops in the eastern end of the island.

TALE OF FILIBUSTER
Here is the story of this soldier, who gave his name as George Moore, which he admitted with a grin was far from right:

"We all signed up in Texas," he said. "No, I can't tell you just where; that would be goofy, wouldn't it? Anyhow, we signed up."

MADE MATCHWOOD OF BIG BRIDGE

Damage of $40,000 Done by Cyclone in Southern Saskatchewan—One Life Lost

REGINA, Aug. 26.—General survey of the cyclone-stricken district of Estevan-Arcoia, in Southern Saskatchewan today set the damage at $40,000, chief item of which is the C.P.R. trestle bridge on the Neptune subdivision, seventy-eight feet high and nearly half a mile long. The bridge, which spans a ravine, was reduced to matchwood by the force of the wind. It will not be rebuilt, say C.P.R. officials here. A line will be built around it.

Chief damage in the town of Estevan was suffered by the premises of the Traux-Trout Coal Company, by stores, whose fronts were ripped open, and to windows and roofs of residences.

The survey shows no loss of life beyond that of R. M. Henderson, Calgary contractor. The two men hit by flying timbers are recovering in Estevan Hospital.

By JAMES A. MILLER
Associated Press Staff Correspondent

SIMLA, Aug. 27 (AP).—Wearing his cobwebby shawl and loin cloth, Mahatma Gandhi entered a small automobile tonight and made a wild dash from his little shanty on the slopes of the Himalayas through 100 miles of twisting dangerous roads to the railroad station at Kalka.

He caught the frontier express which will take him to Bombay, where he will embark Saturday morning on his way to the round table conference at London.

JELICOE REMINDS OF DOUBLE DUTY

Refers to Importance of Teaching Meaning of Empire to Children of Today

Oshawa, Ont., Aug. 27 (CP).—Members of the Canadian Legion were tonight reminded here by Earl Jellicoe, admiral of the British fleet, that they had a double duty to perform—that of helping their comrades and that of fostering imperial ties. The admiral spoke at a banquet tendered him by the mayor and corporation of the City of Oshawa and attended by thousands of citizens and delegates to the provincial convention of the Canadian Legion. Earl Jellicoe stressed the growth in size and influence of the league during the past ten years. He referred to the importance of teaching the children of today what the British Empire stood for, and giving them a thorough knowledge of its component parts and the share each had borne in its building and preservation.

THE MOON WAS FULL

ONE LOST AS PLANE SINKS

Fishing Schooner Rescues Twelve Clinging to Single Pontoon in Fog

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 27 (AP).—Twelve persons were rescued from the foggy waters off Gloucester early tonight after a Pan-American Airways amphibian plane, bound from Halifax to Boston, plunged into the sea and sank before their eyes. An unidentified passenger was missing.

A fishing schooner, feeling its way into port, came upon the nine passengers and three members of the crew as they clung to a pontoon, the only part of the huge ship to stay afloat.

W. L. Bamer, the pilot, made several dives before he was able to release the rubber boat, while the eleven others, including three women, managed to keep from sinking.

Members of the rescued party said the plane dove after the pilot attempted to drop below a fog bank. The only occupant not able to get out of the plane was an aged man who, they believe, went down with the ship.

Nine of the party were taken to a hospital with minor bruises, shock and immersion. Shivering with the cold from their two-hour exposure in the cold water, the survivors were given first aid treatment, stripped off wet clothing and put to bed. None was able to save belongings.

India Approves London Cabinet

SIMLA, Aug. 27 (CP).—The new National Government of Great Britain is regarded in official circles here as being an exceptionally strong ministry. Sir Samuel Hoare, the new Secretary of State for Indian Affairs, is regarded as a welcome successor to Sir Horace Wilson, owing to his knowledge of India. Some Indian politicians, however, express a fear that extreme Conservative views are likely to prevail at London.

Earl Willingdon, Viceroy of India, has now completely recovered from his indisposition.

CASUALTIES WERE HEAVY AT LISBON

Fifty Killed and Hundreds Wounded in Brief Revolt Against President

PORTUGUESE AIRMEN JOINED REBELLION

By RALPH E. PORTE
(Copyright, 1931, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

MADRID, Spain, Aug. 27.—The Portuguese revolt against President Antonio Carmona has failed despite the tenacious resistance offered by rebel bombing planes and troops, according to word received here from Lisbon today.

Communication between the two cities was cut off yesterday and for a time it was impossible to obtain confirmation or denial of reports that President Carmona had been assassinated and that the revolution was making headway. When communication was restored today it was learned that Senator Carmona was safe.

FIFTY KILLED

Madrid newspapers publish unofficial figures of the death toll, which reaches about fifty dead and 300 wounded in the fighting in Lisbon streets. Only when their ammunition ran out about 6 p.m. yesterday did the rebels realize that they no longer could hold their advantageous position in the public gardens named Edward VII, from which the office buildings of the ministries became easy targets, and retreated, leaving many of their compatriots in their wake.

The leader of the movement appears to be Filomeno de Camara, former high commissioner of the Portuguese Colony of Angola in Africa. Senhor de Camara had on his side virtually all the aviation corps and some 100 old-time monarchist army officers who were expelled from the service several years ago and readmitted only last December.

SHOUTED FOR KING

The revolt is thought in well-informed quarters was probably financed by wealthy monarchists now exiled who have managed to dissatisfied republicans in an attempt to overthrow the dictatorship and proclaim Portugal a republic. Many monarchists have reported to have been flown during yesterday's fighting, while shouts of "Hurrah for King Emanuel!" were heard.

Late yesterday afternoon two military airplanes landed at Seville and Huelva. The aviators declared that they had left Portugal to help the king, when convinced that the movement had been successful. They related that during the day they had bombed the presidential building and the headquarters of the republicans, and that they had dropped 350 kilograms of explosives.

MUNICIPALITIES WILL PAY HALF

Married Men Only to Be Given Employment at Local Cost

While complete confirmation of all the details of the agreement between the Province and the Dominion relative to the relief works to be inaugurated has not been given at Ottawa, the Province is proceeding with its arrangements for carrying out the announced policy of both Governments that provision will be made for employment for all those who desire to work.

In addition to the works to be initiated by the Dominion and the Province, which will take care of transients and single men, it was learned last night, the plans call for the municipalities to receive the same percentage of assistance as last year, the Province and the Dominion providing one-quarter each of works initiated by municipalities, with the municipalities providing the other half of the funds required.

BETTER POSITION

This, it is pointed out, places the municipalities on a better footing than during last winter. When Hon. Glendon Robertson, Minister of Labor, conferred with the British Columbia municipalities here several months ago, he was informed that the municipalities of the Province were in a position to receive a substantial measure of relief would be granted to the towns and cities. This is to be done. Transients are to be employed on road work and for this the municipalities will not be called upon to pay anything. In addition single men will be employed similarly, and these works will be carried on in as close proximity to municipalities as possible.

The duty of providing work within municipalities will devolve on the municipalities, but upon these works provision for only half of the cost will fall on the local authorities, the Province and Dominion bearing the other half.

MARRIED MEN

It is upon the municipal works that married men will be employed according to the programme as outlined last night. "By taking care of the transients," declared a member of the Government, "the chief cause of complaint of several months ago is to be removed. In addition the single men residing in municipalities are to be employed on construction works at no cost to the municipalities, and it does not seem too much to expect that the municipalities will contribute half the amount required for the employment of the married men within their limits."

Order Is Slowly Replacing Chaos In Flooded Area

Doctors Busy Fighting Advance of Deadly Epidemics Among Thousands Huddled on Every Bit of Dry Ground—Order Well Maintained

By REGINALD SWEETLAND
(Copyright, 1931, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

HANKOW, Aug. 27.—Bit by bit as the swollen waters in the Yangtze basin recede, order is being brought from chaos in this flooded city. Surveys by the National Flood Relief Commission, with a sanitary survey, have been completed, and scores of Chinese doctors are inoculating thousands for cholera and typhoid while another committee is outlining plans to feed the refugees.

LITTLE DRY LAND

Apart from distant hills the only dry land visible in Hankow consists of the entrance to the Peiping-Hankow railway station and its platform, where thousands of refugees from the country and the poorer districts of the city are huddled, using every available inch of ground. Families are grouped around what few utensils they have managed to save, mothers attempting to screen their naked children from the droves of flies, while the male members of the families, with tin cans, attempt to garner scraps to feed their dependents.

Along the railroad tracks other thousands are huddled, sharing the available space with buffaloes, cows and dogs, and holding children in their arms, many of the victims not having had water for days.

Throughout all this one is impressed with the good naturedness and patience of these thousands whose sole possessions have been wiped out. They are waiting for the arrival of the relief committee, which will be in charge of the work of the relief committee, which will be in charge of the work of the relief committee.

LABOR WARS ON NATIONAL GOV'T

Trades Congress Issues Manifesto Denouncing MacDonald Policies

LONDON, Aug. 27 (CP).—Labor declared war today on the new National Government headed by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald. In a manifesto to the nation, the Trades Union Congress, the national executive of the Labor Party and the consultative committee of the Parliament, called on the Government to leave the municipalities to receive the same percentage of assistance as last year, the Province and the Dominion providing one-quarter each of works initiated by municipalities, with the municipalities providing the other half of the funds required.

This, it is pointed out, places the municipalities on a better footing than during last winter. When Hon. Glendon Robertson, Minister of Labor, conferred with the British Columbia municipalities here several months ago, he was informed that the municipalities of the Province were in a position to receive a substantial measure of relief would be granted to the towns and cities. The duty of providing work within municipalities will devolve on the municipalities, but upon these works provision for only half of the cost will fall on the local authorities, the Province and Dominion bearing the other half.

Canadian Employment Up For August, Figures Show

OTTAWA, Aug. 27.—Employment in Canada at the beginning of August showed a further upward movement, according to statements tabulated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics from 2,867 firms, whose payrolls aggregated $58,238 persons, as compared with $43,419 on July 1. The index number stood at 105.2 compared with 102.8 on July 1, 1931, and 118.8, 127.8, 119.3, 110.8, 108.5, 97.5, 95.8, 101.4, 94.2 and 90.0 on August 1, 1930, 1929, 1928, 1927, 1926, 1925, 1924, 1923, 1922 and 1921, respectively. The employers making returns therefore reported smaller payrolls than at the beginning of August in the preceding four years, but the index of employment was practically the same as in 1926, and was higher than in the five years, 1921-1925.

Invincible Bulwark for Pound Sterling Is Now Being Built by Bankers

Private Banking Credit Being Marshaled in New York and Paris Believed to Be Largest in Financial History—Official Announcement of Arrangements Is Expected Today

Specific Measures of Economy No Factor in Bankers' Plans

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP).—A private banking credit believed to be the largest in financial history is being marshaled in New York and Paris, Wall Street learned today, as an invincible bulwark for the British pound sterling.

Both New York and Paris bankers, it was said in highest Wall Street banking circles, propose to make the credit so large that there can be no further question as to the stability of the pound, which is so widely used as the common medium of international exchange.

Rob Payroll Messengers In Seattle

SEATTLE, Aug. 27 (AP).—Five shots fired in an automobile chase down First Avenue late today failed to halt two young men who held up and robbed two messengers of the $6,000 payroll of the Puget Sound Navigation Co.

The men escaped in congested traffic in the south end of the city a few minutes after the daylight holdup of A. A. Overhouse, twenty-four, and George Mock, twenty, employees of the navigation company. Patrolman J. B. Sherry saw the fleeing pair, commandeered an automobile and gave chase. Standing on the running board, he fired five shots and said he believed one struck the driver of the wildly careening car.

MacDONALD, SNOWDEN AND SHAW TO RETIRE FROM PUBLIC LIFE

LONDON, Aug. 27 (AP).—The London Daily Herald, Labor party organ, said this morning it was "able to announce" that neither Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald nor Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, would seek re-election for Parliament at the next general election.

Rt. Hon. Tom Shaw, Minister for War in the late Labor cabinet, announced tonight he would retire from Parliament at the end of the next session.

FOUR FIRE-FIGHTERS' BODIES DISCOVERED

MISSOULA, Mont., Aug. 27 (AP).—Regional headquarters of the United States Forest Service today announced the bodies of four forest fire-fighters were discovered late today near Waldron Creek, west of Choteau. The bodies were not immediately identified, but they were presumed to be those of four of the five men reported missing from the crew in the Lewis and Clark National Forest.

Tokio Legation Is Bringing Prestige To Commonwealth

Hon. Herbert M. Marler Tells Gathering of Victorians What Is Being Done for Creation of Better Feeling and Extension of Trade

By increasing the prestige of Canada in the Far East, the unity of the British Commonwealth was being better maintained and the prestige of the Empire itself heightened, in the opinion of Hon. Herbert M. Marler, Canadian Minister to Japan, who addressed a very representative gathering at luncheon yesterday at the Empress Hotel. The luncheon was the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club. Joining with the regular organization were the Canadian Club, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and the Chamber of Commerce. All the members of the Provincial Government who were in the city attended the luncheon, Premier Tominie conveying the thanks of the gathering to Mr. Marler at the conclusion of his address.

PATROLING FIRE FRONT WITH GUNS

Fight Against Flames in Idaho Develops Into Hunt for Fire-Bugs

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 27 (AP).—Soldiers armed with picks and shovels and their officers with pistols patrolled a twenty-five-mile front along the Payette River tonight, watching for "fire-bugs" suspected of tampering to keep some of the forest fires from being extinguished. A fire that has held 500 to 1,000 men on the fire line for the past week.

One man was hunted down and arrested near Centerville on suspicion of starting fires back of the lines and attempts to start others. His name was withheld. A dozen "undesirables" were halted out of the fire area.

The extra vigilance was inaugurated as part of a plan to make a gigantic effort to stop the flames before they reached Lowman, ten miles or less from the head of Payette River. The Lowell Trust Company, who was transporting the money to the First National Bank of Boston.

SAAMICH FACES RELIEF CRISIS

Reeve to Urge Emergency Session of Executive of B.C. Municipalities

An emergency meeting of the executive of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities to discuss the present unemployment crisis and its effect on municipal financing.

Dr. Gordon Ledingham

Empire 1815 707 YATES ST. 1815

Yesterday loomed as a possibility. Reeve William Crouch announced at the Saamich council meeting last night that he proposed to write to Reeve E. H. Bridgman, of North Vancouver, president of the union, and suggest that a meeting of the executive be called to discuss the urgency of securing Provincial and Dominion Government aid in the relief of unemployed men who have dependents.

The reeve told the council that he had called the meeting for the purpose of discussing the situation as it affected Saamich, and to gain support of the board in urging an executive meeting of the union. The council endorsed the reeve's proposal.

CONFERS WITH MINISTER
During the course of the discussion the reeve said he had conferred with Hon. R. W. Brun, Minister of Public Works, relative to unemployment relief. He said he had explained to the Minister that it was the general opinion of the council that no provision had been made in the Provincial Government unemployment relief plan to take care of married men, and that Saamich had reached the end of its resources in providing relief. The reeve said that Mr. Brun had assured him the Cabinet was endeavoring to secure the support of the Dominion Government in a plan whereby the municipalities would be greatly relieved of the burden and the married men taken care of.

MANY DEPENDENTS

In the discussion which followed the reeve's report, it was revealed that of the 578 unemployed registered in Saamich, 427 were married men, 143 single men, and only nine transients.

Reeve Crouch said that in the light of this information Saamich would be unable to take care of the situation.

"We have spent the last cent available for unemployed relief. We are faced with a deficit at the end of the year and there is no assurance that a money-by-law will pass," the reeve stated.

BY-LAWS DOUBTFUL

Advisability of installing a sewerage system under local improvement taxation was discussed, but the engineer explained that it would take at least five months to make plans and prepare for the work so that this scheme would not provide immediate employment.

The reeve and several councillors were of the opinion that by-law to finance such a project would not pass.

In view of the fact that there was no assurance that money by-law would pass, the municipal clerk was instructed to inform the Provincial Government that Saamich had no funds available for unemployed relief and that it could make no suggestions in regard to improvements because there was no assurance that the money could be raised by the council.

TOKIO LEGATION IS BRINGING PRESTIGE TO COMMONWEALTH

ber—the first was to increase Empire prestige and to maintain unity in the British Commonwealth, and the second to take charge of Canadian affairs and to promote the interests of Canada to the fullest extent of its ability.

The Orient, he said, had been shown that the British Empire was composed not merely of one nation, as empires have been composed in the past, but of several strong, progressive nations, all co-operating with one another and all bearing allegiance to the same sovereign and to the same flag.

Canada, he said, had been shown that the British Empire was composed not merely of one nation, as empires have been composed in the past, but of several strong, progressive nations, all co-operating with one another and all bearing allegiance to the same sovereign and to the same flag.

The speaker asserted that the objective of his mission to Tokyo was to take charge of Canadian affairs and to promote the interests of Canada to the fullest extent of its ability.

One object of his mission, with political matters, such as, for example, immigration, passports, naturalization and a multitude of others. The other object was to take charge of a commercial nature. Both were under the direct supervision of the minister because the affairs of Canada were separated from those of the other.

Mr. Marler said that in the effort to promote an extension of trade with Japan and with China, there had been thousands of miles traveled and hundreds of persons interviewed. As a result, he had no hesitation in saying that the most friendly relations were being maintained, and he was assured that there was a constantly expanding trade opening for Canada in those countries.

In this connection, the minister pointed out that the work done by his office was not such that the individual Canadian producer could afford to curtail his personal visits to that country or to carry on his best efforts to extend his business. The producer would find the fullest co-operation on the part of the office he presided over.

TRADE WITH CHINA
The possibilities of trade with China were stressed by Mr. Marler, who advised against the putting off of all efforts until "China settles down." Other nations were not doing that, and he called upon the Canadian business men to be alive to the matter.

The market was there. In 1929 China bought from abroad more than $110,000,000 worth. An analysis of this showed that Canada could have supplied nearly $45,000,000 worth. Yet the figures revealed that Canada was selling only an average of $16,000,000 worth.

"At present," the articles alone, wheat and flour, make up from 70 per cent to 80 per cent of our total trade. Five others, lead, salt, herring, butter, and wool, make up from 10 per cent to 15 per cent more.

In short, seven articles alone account for from 85 to 90 per cent of the total. This means that the balance representing the value of all other articles sold by us to China, averaged over a period of three years (1927, 1928 and 1929), was little more than $1,500,000, a little more than $1,500,000.

THANKS HON. H. H. STEVENS

The extension of trade in other lines was being carefully studied, and Mr. Marler expressed his thanks to Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, for his courage and vision and for the splendid knowledge his department had shown in the matter of trade with the Orient.

If the Canadian producer was not prepared to take advantage of what was being offered by the department and the good offices of the minister in the East, then it might be as well to close the office in Tokyo. The speaker was prepared to supply the information, the contacts, the prospects and every possible facility. The producer, however, had his part to carry out. He favored every development in the country having a committee on the Canadian Manufacturers' Association or the Chamber of Commerce, or some other body in the country, to have its object the fostering of trade with the Orient.

"Canada has a good name in the Far East," he said. "What she has done for herself, through the department and the good offices of the minister in the East, then it might be as well to close the office in Tokyo. The speaker was prepared to supply the information, the contacts, the prospects and every possible facility. The producer, however, had his part to carry out. He favored every development in the country having a committee on the Canadian Manufacturers' Association or the Chamber of Commerce, or some other body in the country, to have its object the fostering of trade with the Orient."

Mr. Marler said that in the effort to promote an extension of trade with Japan and with China, there had been thousands of miles traveled and hundreds of persons interviewed. As a result, he had no hesitation in saying that the most friendly relations were being maintained, and he was assured that there was a constantly expanding trade opening for Canada in those countries.

In this connection, the minister pointed out that the work done by his office was not such that the individual Canadian producer could afford to curtail his personal visits to that country or to carry on his best efforts to extend his business. The producer would find the fullest co-operation on the part of the office he presided over.

PREMIER S. F. TOLMIE
Premier Tolmie, in expressing the thanks of the meeting for the address of the minister, referred to his former associations with Mr. Marler in the House of Commons. The minister, said the Premier, was liked for his ability and his good judgment. He was a wise choice for the office he held.

"There was nothing more important, than the finding of an outlet for the products of the country. If that were accomplished, the unemployment situation would be solved at once. British Columbia had much to gain by the establishment of a good feeling with the people of the Orient."

J. Percy Watson, president of the British Club, presided, and introduced Mr. Marler, complimenting him briefly for what he had done in the matter of trade extension in the East.

SAILED AMONG MAGIC SCENES

up the success of the undertaking on his return here yesterday. "Considering that the cruise was to last twelve days, almost three times as long as it now takes to cross the Atlantic, I'll confess I viewed the experiment with some skepticism," the Captain Nevels continued. "When you get in the neighborhood of two hundred people on a ship with just sufficient accommodation for that number, the entertainment must be of sufficiently interesting character to command their attention at all times, otherwise the interest will lag and the result will be disappointing."

"I am happy in stating that my fears were groundless, the scenic grandeur of Northern British Columbia and Alaska being unanimously conceded, by all on the cruise, to be equalled anywhere, exceeding anything they had ever witnessed in their travels in other parts of the world."

CAREFULLY STUDIED
"Realizing the advantages of traveling out-of-the-way waters, off the regular routes and the most of the supplies and ammunition. "Well, where we shopped off from exactly I honestly couldn't say. I don't know. They put us in little boats and we just cruised around the coast and finally contacted the ship. Anyhow, it was somewhere off Texas."

UNLOADED ARMS
"We got to this little town off the shore a ways and pulled in and tied to the dock. Our ship, that is, the ship, was on down the coast a ways. It was supposed to land at Antilla, and if it did, or didn't, I don't know because we were too busy."

"We got in early in the morning and we worked like the devil all day unloading the ammunition and supplies, rifles and machine guns and so on. Nobody bothered us except a few soldiers, and we got rid of them."

"We were told we were supposed to get to a town named Holguin with the stuff, where 5,000 men were waiting to grab the guns. But we never got there."

"I don't know, that was a joke. Honest. Most of them went on trying to get the guns and other things to Holguin, see, and some of us, I don't know, maybe twenty or thirty stayed behind at the tunnel. That's where I was, behind a machine gun. We set up four of them. There were two bigger ones, too, and they drove off a submarine two or three times that tried to come in, but when it got too hot these two had to be left behind."

AMMUNITION SHORT
"Well, you see, an airplane came over and didn't see a thing and we didn't fire a shot. Then the troops came marching in and we let loose and they went down like tenpins. Those that were left scattered then, and honest, it was a joke. They would come within 100 yards of us. If we had enough ammunition we could have stayed there for years, but the rest of it had gone ahead, see, and the airplane start Sitka, most historic spot in Alaska, formerly the Russian capital, visited for the first time by boats of the B.C. Coast Service; and Skagway, reminiscent of gold rush days and the regime of 'Sloppy Smith."

ON TRIP SOUTHBOUND

"Southbound, the steamer traversed the Portland Canal to Stewart, famous for its association with the Premier Mine. Anyhow, where the metal are converted into blister copper; Ocean Falls and Powell River, where pulp and paper are made from British Columbia soft woods to feed printing presses the world over."

"At Skagway the usual two-day stop-over was made, the tourists having the choice of making the trip to White Horse, head of navigation on the Yukon, or going to Tagish Lake and viewing the beauties of Taku Arm; while in addition to the various points of call, beautiful Behn Canal was visited, as was Taku Glacier, and the island of Revilla Gigeo circumnavigated."

HISTORIC ROCK

"Proceeding up Bella Coola Inlet the tourists were greatly interested in Mackenzie Rock and the obelisk erected there which commemorates the arrival at Pacific tidal waters of Sir Alexander Mackenzie 'taken from Canada by land'."

"At Stewart a change was taken of the motor car service there to visit the Premier Mine, while others spent the time exploring the town and its environs. Calling at Anyox, Ocean Falls and Powell River, every facility was placed at the disposal of the tourists to view the plants, personally conducted by the plants, or in charge of expert officials explained the processes of mining and paper-making; while with its usual generous hospitality the Powell River Company provided a ballroom for the entertainment of everybody on the last night aboard ship, which made a fitting termination to a most successful experiment cruise."

Enthusiastic over the delights of the portland cruise off the beaten tourist paths, Captain Nevels stated that the voyage it is believed concluded under such happy circumstances is but the forerunner of many more over the same route in the future.

by the Federal Reserve and the Bank of England, which was to the Bank of England. The new credit to run for one year. A specific date of termination of the Federal Reserve credit has not been officially announced, but it has been understood that it will be terminated when the private credit will be succeeded by an issue of long term British Government bonds in New York and other markets, if the bond issue is favorable to such an operation when the one-year loan matures.

FOR ONE YEAR
It was explained that the United States credit will be in the form of a $100,000,000 credit, of 1925, save that it will be for one year, whereas that credit was for two. The United States syndicate is expected to indicate many of the participants in the 1926 operation, which was underwritten by leading financial institutions throughout the country.

It has been understood in Wall Street for several days that the new British Government would be provided with a substantial loan to make the pound sterling doubling over, although it is acknowledged that such a loan may not be absolutely necessary.

As soon as the new Coalition Government was announced, one of Wall Street's leading bankers said: "Finally that it would have no difficulty in arranging a sizeable American loan within twenty-four hours."

two shiploads of us, where I was, at 500 bucks apiece. They gave us a purse of money and the other 300 was got off the boat. "There were about 150 on our ship and a lot more on the other, seven or eight times that many. I don't know. They put us in little boats and we just cruised around the coast and finally contacted the ship. Anyhow, it was somewhere off Texas."

"We got to this little town off the shore a ways and pulled in and tied to the dock. Our ship, that is, the ship, was on down the coast a ways. It was supposed to land at Antilla, and if it did, or didn't, I don't know because we were too busy."

"We got in early in the morning and we worked like the devil all day unloading the ammunition and supplies, rifles and machine guns and so on. Nobody bothered us except a few soldiers, and we got rid of them."

"We were told we were supposed to get to a town named Holguin with the stuff, where 5,000 men were waiting to grab the guns. But we never got there."

"I don't know, that was a joke. Honest. Most of them went on trying to get the guns and other things to Holguin, see, and some of us, I don't know, maybe twenty or thirty stayed behind at the tunnel. That's where I was, behind a machine gun. We set up four of them. There were two bigger ones, too, and they drove off a submarine two or three times that tried to come in, but when it got too hot these two had to be left behind."

AMMUNITION SHORT
"Well, you see, an airplane came over and didn't see a thing and we didn't fire a shot. Then the troops came marching in and we let loose and they went down like tenpins. Those that were left scattered then, and honest, it was a joke. They would come within 100 yards of us. If we had enough ammunition we could have stayed there for years, but the rest of it had gone ahead, see, and the airplane start ed bombing us and we got to running low on bullets.

"Then the colonel, I don't know what his name was, but he was the boss, got to Santiago and took a bus from there back to Havana."

"We didn't have a bit of trouble and nobody bothered us. All of them in my gang were Americans. One of them used to be captain of marines who was down on his luck and needed the money in Havana."

DO-X FINISHES EVENTFUL TRIP

Arrives Safely at New York After 30,000-Mile Adventurous Flight

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—A giant of the sky and sea, the 112-passenger DO-X, alighted off the tip of Manhattan today to the accompaniment of a roaring welcome that for once drowned out the drone of its twelve motors. The big giant had been nine months and twenty-two days on its way from Switzerland to New York.

It completed a 30,000-mile circuitous flight despite delays caused by storms, fire, engine trouble, gales, official red tape, damage from waves, court injunctions and the seizure of its fuel supply by Portuguese rebels.

LEARNED THINGS

"We learned things," explained Lieut. C. H. Schildhauer, of Philadelphia, who brought the giant flying boat down on the choppy waves of the harbor today. "We have contributed to aviation by discovering new facts about the effects on planes of erosion and humidity. The flight was a great success."

He predicted that in five years New York would see flying boats twice the size of the DO-X.

Fifty-two passengers and seven crew members were brought ashore in launches as thousands watched the majestic boat riding the waves. Only the crew had made the complete trip from Europe. The passengers were picked up at points along the route. Four of them were women.

WINTER FEEDING IS ENCOURAGED

Federal Department of Agriculture Allows One-Way Traveling Expenses for Purchasing Cattle

In order to encourage winter feeding of young cattle and of lambs in British Columbia, Hon. Robert Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture, has authorized the Dominion livestock branch to put into operation for a period of five months a "free feeder policy."

Under this policy the livestock branch will pay the traveling expenses of a farmer, or the authorized agent of a farmer, residing in British Columbia, who purchases one or more head of cattle or feeder lambs. Expenses covering one-way railway transportation will be paid for a reasonable time required to get the animals to the purchaser from the home of the purchaser to the stockyards in which purchase is made in Western Canada.

The policy, however, will not apply on shipments purchased for speculative purposes, or for other than bona fide feeding purposes.

Hoboes and Cold Days Are Coming

EDMONTON, Aug. 27.—There is a nip in the air these last Summer days and the "hoboes" are heading for warmer climes. It is estimated that more than 800 drifters and hoboes have left the city from this city for distant points—mostly west and south—during the past two weeks.

Harvest fields have absorbed hundreds who have been eager to secure work at nominal wages. But there are hundreds of others "booming the through freight" for lands less rigorous. The exodus is reflected in the 35 per cent decrease in the daily patrons to the city porridge kitchens.

SUBMARINE'S CREW SAMPLING BOTTOM OF ARCTIC OCEAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—A copyrighted diagram from the submarine Nautilus to The New York American, shows how scientists aboard the vessel have sampled the bottom of the Arctic Ocean 6,320 feet from the surface.

The result, says the diagram from Sir Hubert Wilkins, commander of the North Pole submarine expedition, was a column of Arctic mud seventeen inches long and one inch thick. It was "drawn from the surface for fifteen inches and then pale, representing the deposits in the Polar waters of hundreds of thousands of years."

Submerging the vessel from an ice-free spot in the Arctic Sea, the submarine crew tested the ocean bottom scientifically by means of a new type of deep sea bottom sampler designed and operated by Professor Sverdrup.

URGE BAN ON FOREIGN BORN

Canadian Organization Asks Preference for Native Sons of Canada

TORONTO, Aug. 27 (CP).—Preference should be given to natives of Canada in a variety of positions in the public service of the country, and on the staffs of public utilities, according to resolutions passed today by the Native Sons of Canada in convention here.

A plea was addressed by the convention to the Dominion Government, urging that only natives of Canada be appointed to positions of an executive or advisory character, and to the Senate.

Federal, provincial and municipal governments were asked to require, in so far as to their power, "employment of native Canadians in public or semi-public institutions."

RETARD CITIZENSHIP

The convention expressed its opposition to a proposal to amend the Canadian Nationalities Act, which would reduce the period of residence required of British subjects not born in Canada from five to two years to attain Canadian domicile.

Establishment of an order of merit for Canadians who had attained prominence was determined upon by the convention. A recommendation to the Dominion Government, approved by the Native Sons, suggested "that all appeals to the Privy Council in England be disallowed and that a Supreme Court, a court of final appeal, be established in Canada to adjudicate in such cases as have heretofore been submitted to the English court."

OFFICERS ELECTED

J. Oscar Boulanger, K.C., M.P. for Bellechasse, a member of the Ottawa Assembly of the organization, was elected president. Other National officers elected were: National first vice-president, G. Woodworth, Vancouver; second vice-president, J. Winnett, Vancouver; secretary, Frank MacDonald, Toronto; treasurer, Charles Neuf, Toronto; chaplain, R. D. Smith, Winnipeg; sergeant-at-arms, Dr. J. S. Wright, Edmonton; inner guard, Lorenzo Lusier, Montreal; outer guard, W. Turpin, Quebec; auditor, J. Morrison, Vancouver.

The next annual convention will be held in Quebec City.

The convention decided to petition the Canadian Government "that in the event of all future appointments to the office of Governor-General of Canada, the name of a Canadian be submitted to His Majesty the King for the appointment."

LABOR MAN SAYS CAREERS AT END

Obvious Conservatives Will Return to Power in Britain—Financial Credit Good

MONTREAL, Aug. 27.—"It means the end of Ramsay MacDonald's political career. It means the end of Snowden's and the end for all of us, forty or fifty of us, who will stick by MacDonald in this crisis. But in this period one cannot put the party above patriotic considerations," declared Frank Markham, Labor member for Rochester and Chatham in the British House of Commons, interviewed here today on the formation of the National Government in Great Britain.

"Arthur Henderson will lead the Opposition when the next House assembly," he said. "He is a very capable man, but it seems to me that the Labor party, now split, will be very much weakened at the next elections. It seems obvious that the Conservatives will come back into power with Baldwin at their head."

"The whole situation in England is due to the banks," he continued. "The banks have lent large sums of money to re-establish Australia, to help Germany. Our own financial credit is good. No one questions Britain's financial assets."

New York Sugar

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP).—Raw sugar was quiet early today. No sales were reported, with holders generally asking 3.42 for spot, duty paid.

Refined was unchanged to 4.60 for fine granulated. The demand was light and limited to nearby requirements only.

It will be remembered that shelling by German battleships was hourly expected during August, 1914.

Admiral Vossper, whose squadron was afterwards sunk by Admiral Sturdee in the battle of the Falkland Islands had been reported as cruising on the West Coast of Vancouver Island. Rumors were also current that the Canadian cruiser Rainbow, out of Esquimalt, had encountered the German fleet in sanguinary engagement.

Alex Stewart, Mayor of Victoria during the first three memorable war years, will also speak of the first months of war, and the precautions taken towards defence. He will also refer to the arrival of the Japanese cruisers, which afterwards worked in concert with the British Admiralty in safeguarding the British Columbia coastline.

SAYS BUSINESS GOOD IN EAST

Stratton Whitaker, of Portage la Prairie, Visit Victoria Following Dominion Inspection

STRATTON WHITAKER

"Business conditions in British Columbia are equally as good as those in Eastern Canada," declared Stratton Whitaker, managing director of the Portage la Prairie Mutual Insurance Company, who is visiting in Victoria on a tour of inspection of the company's local branch.

Whitaker has travelled throughout the Dominion as far East as Quebec, and, on leaving Victoria, in about two weeks, will return to the headquarters of the company he represents at Portage la Prairie.

"Despite the general depression," Mr. Whitaker said, "the insurance business is advancing in all parts of the Dominion, and our company has progressed a great deal recently and has increased its assets."

The Eastern branches of the company have only recently been established. It was learned, the company taking out its active incorporation for them in 1930. The company has been well received in the East and West, Mr. Whitaker stated.

In Ontario and Quebec, Mr. Whitaker said that business was brightening up considerably, and while Manitoba was about normal, the other Prairie Provinces have slackened a little because of the crop conditions.

STORE FRONTS TO BE ALTERED

Beverly Block Remodeling Will Cost $4,000—New Buildings Planned

At an estimated cost of $4,000, the store fronts of the Beverly Block at 724 Yates Street will be remodelled by Williams, Terrie & Williams, contractors.

A permit for the work was taken out at the City Hall yesterday. Ralph Berrill is the architect. The plans call for the latest designs in window display. At the same time this work is done, the roof of the building will be covered. The city also issued a permit for the construction of a $2,300 home, of stucco exterior, for David W. Burnett at 1443 Richardson Street.

Plans for several new buildings are being prepared. A private school, planned by L. Leonard James and Hubert Savage, will be built shortly for Miss D. W. Atkins on Maddison Street. Ralph Berrill also is preparing plans for a store building to be erected in the downtown area.

A manufacturing warehouse, 80 feet by 40 feet and one story high, will be built on the Industrial Reserve for the Sidney Roofing & Paper Company. Mr. Berrill has called for tenders on this work.

Tenders will close on Saturday for the construction of the domestic science building at St. Margaret's School for girls. This building is expected to be ready for occupancy by the end of October.

HAD LONG HIKE TO SHOW MODELS

Boy Left in Lurch Sets Out to Walk From Winnipeg to Ottawa

OTTAWA, Aug. 27.—(Determination to compete in the national model aircraft contest here this week cost a young Regina resident a long hike to Eastern Canada, after he was deserted by a motorist he had paid to bring him East. It was revealed today when "Bill" Mountford, nineteen, of Regina, reached the capital.

"Bill," who is entered in both indoor and outdoor flying competitions in the national contests to take place Friday and Saturday, left Regina early last week in an automobile by arrangement with the driver, whom he paid to bring him as far as Ottawa. The party divided in Winnipeg, and after spending the night in that city young Mountford realized that he had been stranded there when his erstwhile chauffeur did not call back for him.

"Bill" forwarded his flying models on to Ottawa by rail, and set out to hike to the capital. He was fortunate in getting lifts from friendly automobile parties, and came here rapidly by way of the Central United States and Toronto.

People who do not come up to your standard of culture or intelligence are of no interest to you, and you discard them as quickly as you can, revealing a rather selfish nature.

You are rather erratic in your actions and are forever changing your mode of existence. Under the heading of new business the matter of city wages was discussed, when it was decided to cut the wages of city workers from $4 per day to $3.50.

Owing to the next council meeting night falling on Labor Day, it was decided to hold the meeting on Thursday, September 10.

"A NON-PARTY GOVERNMENT"

The reason there has been a revolt within the Labor Party in Britain over the creation of a Coalition Government is because that political organization does not believe in its Parliamentarianism being free agents. Their first allegiance must be to the Trades Union Congress; after that, they are allowed to serve the country. That explains the attitude of Mr. Arthur Henderson and others, and probably of the bulk of the Labor following. The extent of that bulk will be decided when a vote is taken in Parliament on the remedial financial measures to be adopted by the Coalition Government.

Probably many of the late Labor Ministers are convinced in their hearts of the error of their ways. They could hardly fail of conviction because of the course of events in the midst of which they lived and moved and worked. They know, however, that were they to admit defeat and join with Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and the Conservatives and Liberals in repairing the errors of the past they are repudiated by their own supporters. In the emergency they are thinking politically. All indications are that the vast mass of the Labor following in the country is unconcerned about the state of the nation's finances and believes that there is a fortuitous purpose out of which permanent benefits can be dispensed.

Mr. MacDonald and his Labor colleagues in the Coalition Government have ceased to have influence with their party. They will secure some Labor following in Parliament, for a slim number of the Labor Members are convinced that Coalition was inevitable, and are ready to support the movement. The remainder adhere unhesitatingly to the doctrine that no economies are necessary, as is evidenced by the decision of the Trades Union Congress. In this respect there is an attitude which displays ignorance of national and international problems. The economies proposed are the antithesis of the Socialistic doctrine. They were impossible under a Government dependent on these economies, or rather the onus for making them operative, will be shared by all parties alike through co-operation as a public duty, but the Labor Party, as such, is standing aside.

The appeal in Britain is to self-discipline, and there is no country in the world where it can be more readily enforced, despite the strength of the Trades Union Congress. That discipline is necessary to restore confidence. There is an example for the British people in what Germany and Austria have been doing. Up to the time that the Coalition Government was formed there was a distinct cleavage of opinion as to the nature of the reforms that could be instituted. That cleavage, as it affects the attitude of the Trades Union Congress, is not swept aside. The Coalition Government is merely a temporary expedient. What is described as non-party government is only possible in a British country in times of emergency and for a specific purpose. It can only be ephemeral, and the attitude of the Trades Union Congress is a clear indication of this. Wherever there is a non-party government in times of peace, a strong opposition party develops at once.

THE FORESHORE ASSET

It is not a privilege but a right that the public exercise in walking along the cliffs and coast paths. The expectation is that paths will be provided for them, that facilities will be created to enable them to enjoy to the full the advantages of sea air, and that amusements will be provided where they can take their recreation under enjoyable conditions. As Mr. Humphrey Baker says, writing in The British Journal of the Commons, Open Spaces and Footpaths Preservation Society: "Access to the seashore and the land immediately adjoining it is greatly prized by the people of these islands. The seaside holiday is a national institution; and when folk are by the sea they not only want to be able to reach the shore or the cliff at every accessible point, but also to live and sleep in houses as near as may be to the edge of the land."

In Victoria there are remarkable opportunities for gratifying the public desire in the foregoing respect. A considerable proportion of the land immediately adjoining the foreshore within the municipal limits is public domain. The cliffside is of a character which could be improved to an almost unbelievable extent. There is no place where up-to-date access to the beaches could not be provided. The beaches could be artificially improved and kept clear of logs, driftwood and refuse. Walks could be built into an improved cliffside with shelters and seats. A programme of improvement devised to be carried out through a term of years would metamorphose the appearance of the waterfront and render it a stretch that would appeal as a recreational area to all our citizens and to the thousands of visitors who come to our midst in the summer months.

The plan should be to make Victoria a seaside resort. It would be an investment that would repay a hundredfold in the years to come. No vision is needed to assure this; all that is requisite is simply a scheme of improvement based on what has been done elsewhere. If the attractions proposed possess the element of novelty, so much the better. The point is that the Dallas Road foreshore, from Menzies Street to Clover Point, lends itself in the most admirable fashion to being made the city's chief playground. Why it is that our publicity organization has not concentrated through the years on working for this development is not understandable. Its experience of what other cities have done, and what Vancouver is doing, should have been its inspiration if it wants to attract tourists here in ever-growing numbers. The thing to be remembered is that it will require a great deal more of the pressure of public opinion than has yet been exercised to bring our civic authorities to a realization of the asset they possess. No City Council has yet appreciated its extent and possibilities.

CHINA'S PROBLEMS

Most of the latter day problems in China have been engineered by Communism. There is a Red Army there which has been in revolt against the Nationalist Government. This outbreak, which has had its headquarters in Kiangsi, gained some initial victories over the Nationalist troops; now the movement has been, to a great extent, quelled, the Communists disintegrated and broken up into guerrilla bands. It will take some time to eliminate these, but to hasten the task the Nationalist authorities are making large purchases of airplanes. With these, attacks will be made on the mountain retreats of the Reds who have now turned to banditry.

The Nationalist Government is concentrating its strength to remove the Red menace. It has made great progress in the task, but even such elimination is not the end of China's troubles. There are troubles within the Nationalist ranks, and one of these is to prevent the rise of a dictatorship, a possibility which has been increased by the recurrent troubles that have faced the Nanking regime. Until there is an assurance of stable government in China the possibilities of any large increase of trade with that country are not particularly bright. The continuous fighting there has made it difficult for the Government to give attention to foreign affairs, and to attempt to collect taxes so that it can carry out the reforms outlined in the new code which it hopes to put into effect. Its difficulties have been increased immensely by the heavy suffering caused by the Yangtze Valley floods.

ASSASSINATIONS IN INDIA

Those who have so energetically labored in pursuit of the goal of giving India home rule appear to regard with equanimity the assassination of British officials by Indian fanatics. On July 27 Mr. R. R. Garlick, a district judge, was murdered at Alipur. A few days before Lieutenant Sheehan was wounded and Lieutenant Hext murdered in the Central Provinces. On July 22 an attempt was made on the life of Sir E. Hotson, Acting Governor of Bombay. A seven British officials were assassinated and a dozen others wounded, including Sir G. de Montmorency, Governor of the Punjab.

The campaign of civil disobedience has brought murder in its wake. The British officials in India resent the pusillanimity of those authorities who allow such a campaign to be pursued with comparative impunity, but they are unafraid themselves. They still carry on in the traditional way in which the British have ruled India, even those who may have every reason to suspect that they are marked down as the prey of terrorists. M. Gandhi, who poses as an apostle of peace, has much to answer for before that tribunal which never condones the wanton shedding of blood.

There is a new thought in the conception that Shakespeare was the founder of the tourist industry. It is a more arresting thought said to imagine what the great poet would say of the crowds who visit the shrine of his memory at Stratford. There is no let-up in the stream of the pilgrimage, and yet, The Glasgow Herald says, when it comes to putting Shakespeare on the stage those who "know" about these things stage those who "know" about these things, they will solemnly declare that the "talkies" have killed the drama. "Gull" says that newspaper, "it is a comfort to know that Stratford every year."

Communists arrested in Toronto on charges of disturbing the peace have been able to secure bail bonds of $15,000, which indicates there is money behind them, even if they do masquerade with the unemployed.

SLEEP'S PRISONER

When late at night I steal to look
At my small son asleep,
The gravity, the quietude
Of his face make me weep.

I hold my breath and lean above
The carven brow, sealed eyes,
The laughing mouth, now still and close,
The lips that know no sighs.

Ah, far away from me, and lost,
And and and small he seems,
As all alone he wanders through
The country of his dreams.

Small traveler, in that far land
To which I cannot come,
May the dark night be good to you
And morning bring you home.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

no comes a reckoning when the banquet's over,
The dreadful reckoning, and men smile
no more.

I had rather have a fool to make me
merry than experience to make me sad—Shakespeare.

Heaven forbid that we should write one word which might cause a weak brother to stumble, but we cannot refrain from referring to a passage in the works of one of the most interesting of modern essayists and literary critics. We are not sure that the writer in question, Mr. Middleton, is not a greater essayist than Mr. Shaw, and that is a bold thing to say, considering what Mr. Shaw has repeatedly said about himself. The startling statement of Mr. Middleton is that it is probably a good thing for any person constantly engaged in mental labor of any kind to get drunk occasionally—say, once or twice a year.

We trust nobody unhappily connected with us, such as the editor next door, the proprietor a door or two farther along, or the people at home, will become unduly alarmed if they should read this startling statement (which they are not likely to, because we gather that few of our written words are ever likely to be read by the parties who naturally should be most directly concerned), bearing out the saying that "a prophet is not without honor save in his own country." So we say the suggestion of the essayist in our case is not likely to be put to the test. We have no intention of getting drunk, even if the material necessary to produce such a state of mental exhilaration and "spiritual" stimulation were procurable at the price we are financially able to pay. And the scoffers we meet every day will tell us they can see nothing in our productions which warrants the vain assumption that our labor involves any considerable amount of mental wear and tear.

The point we are striving to reach in our rambling way, notwithstanding the startling hypothesis of the distinguished essayist, is that it is good neither for an individual nor for a nation to indulge in what is called an orgy. Mr. R. B. Bennett says the present depression in Canada and throughout the world is due to an orgy—an orgy of speculation. We said the same thing some time ago, but are not so vain as to suggest that what we said inspired the statement of the Prime Minister. Our conceit of ourselves is not quite so mountainous as all that. There is a law of nature that if either people or nations indulge in excesses, the price of such excesses must be paid, and the price that must be paid is high. The Prime Minister of Great Britain said practically the same thing as the Prime Minister of Canada in the speech he made outlining the reasons for the resignation of his Government.

In his speech, probably the best speech he ever made, Mr. MacDonald confessed that he had sinned; and that his Government had sinned; but he did not crave absolution for his transgressions or for the transgressions of his Government. He practically declared that the mistakes of the Government were due to inexperience; that he was not a big enough man for the job he had undertaken, and that the new course he had taken for the adoption for the purpose of rectifying the mistakes he had made and restoring the weakened credit of the country to its former robust health and strength.

The frank confession of the Prime Minister proved that he was a greater man than we or any of his critics ever gave him credit for being. His course had been wrong from the beginning, but he was willing to sacrifice his political future in order to save the country from the consequences of his mistakes. The biggest mistake Mr. MacDonald made was that in his public course he was more concerned about the state of the world than he was concerned about the state of his own country. The fact which stamps the Prime Minister as a greater man than we credited him with being is that he is big enough to admit his worst fault and to intimate that in future his chief interest will be concerned for the future of his own country.

Mr. MacDonald also confessed that his knowledge of international finance was as limited as his knowledge of a little child of such intricate matters. In making that confession there was nothing specially to the discredit of the Prime Minister, for international finance is as a sealed book to all people save those who are specialists. If there is any responsibility in the matter, it is the responsibility of the ignorant people who put the late Government in power and of the equally ignorant and irresponsible writers for the newspapers who advised the people to put such a Government in power.

The advice that "where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise," is dangerous when applied to the affairs of any nation. Notwithstanding current opinion, such an advice is dangerous when applied to the affairs of a newspaper, and we are not sure that a certain amount of experience is not necessary for the administration of the affairs of even of a newspaper, and events have demonstrated that something besides ability to write an essay for a popular magazine, to drive a locomotive, to dig a ditch in a field or coal out of a mine, is necessary to lead a legislative body or administer the business of a nation. Great Britain has been indulging in a prolonged orgy, and nature is exacting the usual penalty.

Mont Saint Michel Is "A Tiny Mosaic" of Romantic Age

By BARBARA BULLOCK-WESTER

Mere Poultard is dead, but her comedies still shine in the frying pan over the flames of the Breton fireplace. That unique hostel in its unique setting, Mont Saint Michel, has become one of the most popular and interesting "spots" in Brittany's tourism.

It was late afternoon, almost sunset, as I drove along the rocky shore of the Breton coast, my eyes fixed upon that extraordinary island in the distance. It is rather a long approach, and I rejoiced, for I was to come gradually to the realization that what lay before me was no dream of fancy, though the light behind it gave a curious blue-velvet appearance to the castle walls and the grey stones which rose up and up from the sand below.

"Cher Mere Poultard"—I had arrived. No brass-banded concierge, no impressive driveway and approach, only a narrow cobbled street, from the cobbles of which I walked into the entrance hall. There were only two persons in the room, which was a kind of baronial kitchen with a huge open fireplace, a table on which stood a golden basket of eggs, plates of goulash, and a bowl of apples and pears. A white-capped Breton woman was stirring an omelette over the fire, and the appetizing fragrance filled the room.

Our rooms, small but clean and comfortable, were reached by climbing up a steep stairway, and from the tiny casements we looked over the roofs and across the great stretch of silvery sand which in the evening light seemed bathed in opalescent gleam.

Of the dinner, I cannot write; of that omelette, I dare not write. You would not believe me, in the first place, but you could not resist coming to find out, and perhaps there would not be enough eggs to go round.

ONLY ONE STREET

Following that repeat of hors d'oeuvres, sole omelette, grilled chicken and green peas and bowls of fragrant wildwood strawberries and thick cream, we strolled along the one street of Mont Saint Michel. It is a brave little street to be there at all. The houses on either side their best to crowd it out of existence, almost meeting overhead in places. I think there is a conspiracy going on, and at night, when the tortoiseshell cats of which there are dozens) tread the cobbles, I think they were planning to lean still closer together so that no light might penetrate into the secrets of the passageway below.

Up innumerable stone steps, along the wide walls, up I climbed, till the towers of the old abbey which crowns the mount seemed almost to reach out to westward the sunset sky burned in the blue twilight. Never have I seen such a prolonged sunset. It was reluctant to go, and flooded the sea and the sandy shore for miles around with its glories. Each pool left by the tide was golden and red, and the rocks of the little lone island away from the northward were transformed into shades of purple and deepest blue.

I stood in silence for almost an hour. Hundreds of swallows wheeling round the castle walls and over the spires were the only sign of life. In the chinks of the old stone walls grew vibrant in masses, the delicate rose of the flowers declared in perfect harmony with the grey stones. When the vivid orange and red had died away in the flaming sky, and only a golden glow remained, I turned towards the east where, framed in a great stone archway hung the full moon.

Read the history of Mont Saint Michel; read of the dungeons, the kings, the old abbots, the tales told by the chroniclers. See for yourself the pictures which have been painted, the results of the photographers' art, and having done all this you will still not "feel" Mont Saint Michel. It is a tiny mosaic of the Romantic Age which has survived the ravages of time and the speed of modern civilization. It is being commercialized, yet is still unspoiled.

TROUBLE

Trouble? Well, let's meet it,
Let's not run away;
Maybe if we greet it
Bravely, we'll defeat it
By the close of day.

Trouble? Others bear it,
Why should we alone
Claim we cannot share it?
Rather, let us wear it
Like a precious stone!

Like a ruby glowing
In an amulet;
Let each care be showing
How we still are owing Strength to cares we've met.

Trouble? Why believe it
Must be wholly wrong?
Dauntlessly receive it,
Brave souls, then, and weave it
Into light and song!

CALENDAR REFORM

Sir—Your correspondent, Mr. Jeffrey S. Craig, in his letter appearing on the 25th inst., expresses deep concern lest the projected Thirteen Months' Calendar should come into force and prevent due observance of the Lord's Day. His fear is groundless. The Christian Church will never in any circumstances give up Sunday, nor will the Jews let go their Sabbath (Saturday) till they turn to Christianity.

But there is long overdue a reform of the calendar that would set Sunday where it should be, that is, on the right side of the calendar week as the seventh day. For Sunday is the true seventh and Saturday the true sixth of the week.

Victoria's much-loved recent visitor, Dr. W. Cunningham-Ingram, Bishop of London, in his book, "Reasons for Faith" (1907), page 18 of "New Testament Difficulties" section, refers to Justin Martyr, who sealed his faith with his blood in 165 or 166 A.D., and who in 150 A.D. wrote a Defence of Christianity and sent it to the reigning Emperor, Antoninus Pius. In that defence, Justin Martyr states that the Day of the Sun is the Christian Lord's Day, and so establishes, historically, Sunday as the Apostolic Sabbath, as the Christian Sabbath from the start of the Christian Church. Since then the only change that Sunday has experienced was to become legalised when in the Fourth Century Christianity became the religion of the Empire. But does Scripture identify Sunday as the Seventh Day? The answer is a clear affirmative.

Twice in the twentieth chapter of Ezekiel the Lord declares that He wrought so that Israel should no longer observe His Sabbath. That great work was the double day of Joshua recorded in Scripture and in tradition, I believe, among the Babylonians and Egyptians and Chinese. The priests of Israel reckoned that prolonged day as two days and so got ahead in their reckoning one day in the week. By their own fault they lost sight of the true Sabbath. And so it is written, in Ezekiel, xlii, 26, that the Israelite Priesthood had shut their eyes to the Sabbath of the Lord. The true Seventh Day was hidden from them and so was preserved thereafter from deliberate desecration. That was the basic purpose of that great miracle of the Sun and Moon standing still, and then it came to pass that Israel observed the Sixth Day and now the Jews observe the same.

The word of the New Testament is equally emphatic. But the English translation has hidden the truth on this particular point. Seven times in the English New Testament it is stated that Sunday is the first day of the week. And every Greek scholar knows that is a false translation. It is in fact to blind acceptance of the Jewish Sabbath as the seventh day. But the Greek New Testament speaks with a different voice, and seven times declares Sunday to be the first of Sabbaths, that is, the sanctified Seventh Day of the week. And Sunday will in days to come be recognized as the true Seventh Day Sabbath all over the world.

The Lord has given the true Sabbath to the Christian Church and the Jews, who still reject him, have a false Sabbath.

The prophet Malachi foretold the Rising of the Sun of Righteousness, and in due time the Lord did arise on His Name Day, Sunday. And the first Christian preaching was on Sunday the first Christian Pentecost. R. S. W. BAIRD.

"ANNIHILATION OF MATTER"

Sir—The ultimate annihilation of matter, as taught by an eminent scientist like Sir James Jeans, formed the subject of an interesting editorial some few days ago. The annihilation, or perhaps better to use the other word, conversion, for what once existed must always exist in some form or other, and cannot be conceived of as annihilated, it is conjectured as to be caused by the fusion of protons and electrons, the positive and negative which, according to the law of polarity, operating on all planes, in union produces a third, in this case rays of cosmic energy.

The annihilation of matter as such is not a new thing, but has been known for ages by the sages of the East and is termed the night of nonmanifestation as opposed to the day of manifestation, the two, according to the law of periodicity forming one of the major cycles; using an analogy of the human it is also called the inbreathing and outbreathing of God.

Unlike the Western people, the Orientals know instinctively that science and religion are one, not to be divorced, and both, rightly applied, lead to knowledge of God. Underlying and interpenetrating all matter, from the greatest star to the smallest atom, is spirit, the pole of matter, its opposite. Pure spirit, not fully comprehended by the human mind, is universal, has no sense of the particular, being everywhere equal, undivided, whole; it has no centre. Matter, whose inmost quality is separateness, holds all to a centre, restricts and binds. From the union of the two springs evolution. Evolution completed the cycle and having run its course, matter, as such, ceases to be, returning to its original state, primordial substance, nonmanifested.

All life expressed as solar systems—Sun and planets should not be considered as dead matter but as living entities, constituting the macrocosm or grand man of the universe—is subject to periods or cycles which again form what is commonly called the life cycle.

To the limited human conception, Truth may be said to be relative, and the doctrine of the permanence of matter is therefore relatively true.

As expressed by Plato, all knowledge is reminiscence, meaning the discovery and new theories of today are rather rediscoveries of facts long known.

FEDALS WHILE BATHING

Persons who dislike lifting themselves from the soothing waters of their bath to turn faucets on or off will thank M. Goudart, the French millionaire, for his ingenious idea. In his flat, the flow of water in his wash-basin, as well as his bathtub is regulated by pedals after the manner of a motorcar. The left foot regulates the hot and the right foot the cold water, while pressure on an "accelerator" provides a stream of perfumed "soap flakes." M. Goudart invented the device because he likes to read while in the water.

75 years of sound development

At the outset of its career in 1855, this Bank's policy of "sound and conservative banking methods" was inaugurated.

At the first annual meeting on July 15, 1857, the reserve fund was created with £4,800.

During more than three quarters of a century this Bank has consistently followed its sound policy. When bad financial weather darkened Canadian skies, this Bank weathered the storms and developed consistently by its own strength, and without mergers.

Today its Reserves are 50 per cent greater than its paid up capital.

The principles upon which this sound record was built are those by which we safeguard the welfare of our clients.

"In my own case after a severe illness, Guinness was the only thing that produced a refreshing night's sleep."

TO OPEN NEW SCHOOL SOON

St. Louis College Practically Completed and Ready for Dedication Ceremony

Final preparations are now being made for the opening of the new St. Louis College, at the corner of Pandora Avenue and Vancouver Street, shortly.

Construction work on this new and up-to-date building was carried out by Luney Bros., of this city, and commenced on March 18. It is three stories high and has accommodation for 300 students.

The ground floor is a covered-in playroom, measuring 114 by 70 feet. There are eight rooms on the first floor, including four classrooms, seating forty-five pupils each; the principal's room, a visitors' ante-room, and a chemical and physical laboratories.

The top floor is for high school students and has five classrooms, a teachers' room and a large library. The building is fire-proof throughout.

Victoria labor only was employed in the construction, and wherever possible Canadian products were used.

The former faculty of six teachers will now be increased to ten.

Townley & Matheson were the architects for the structure.

START WORK ON ROAD BUILDING

Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, to Place Men on Monday

The first active steps to relieve unemployment in British Columbia will be taken on Monday when between 600 and 700 of Vancouver's out-of-work men will be recruited for construction work on the North Fraser Highway between the Mainland City and Pitt, it was announced by Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Provincial Minister of Public Works, yesterday.

A two and a half hour meeting of the Executive Council yesterday afternoon.

This is believed to be the first move on the part of any of the Western provinces to begin active relief operations, and marks the commencement of British Columbia's extensive programme of road construction across the province. Mr. Bruhn also announced that establishment of camps was proceeding on the Big Bend portion of the highway, on the North Thompson, on the highway between Prince George and Prince Rupert, and also on the Hope to Fraser Canyon road. These are expected to be ready within a short time, the minister said.

WAITING ON OTTAWA

At the meeting of the Executive Council yesterday all phases of the unemployment question were discussed, but the only announcement concerning the Provincial Relief agreement was, "we are still waiting for action at Ottawa and until we have something definite to work on, we cannot make known our full plans."

Members of the Cabinet learned yesterday that Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, had left Vancouver for Ottawa and that Premier R. B. Bennett was also on his way to the Capital to summon a meeting of the Federal Cabinet to give consideration to the requests of the Western provinces for immediate relief.

The Provincial Government still has many matters connected with the relief question, and the Premier has telegraphed the Dominion Premier urging a quick settlement.

READY TO PROCEED
British Columbia is already to proceed with its works programme on a large scale. The Minister of Public Works has completed a preliminary survey of the proposed main route across the central portion of the province and engineers have all employment details in hand. So far the Dominion Government has not even intimated how much it intends to pay towards the cost of the Provincial link in the transcanada roadway.

The question of uniform wages for all Western provinces was considered yesterday and Premier Tominer reiterated his desire for an early conference between representatives of all provinces.

While awaiting word from Ottawa, the Government will continue its preliminary plans and will undertake as much construction work as can be conveniently handled.

MINISTER HAS BUSY DAY HERE

Hon. Herbert M. Marler Meets Cabinet and Addresses Luncheon

Reaching Victoria early yesterday morning, Hon. Herbert Marler, Canadian Minister of Justice, spent a busy day here meeting members of the Provincial Government and officials who had business with him. Following these conferences, he addressed a luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club, also attended by representative citizens from other organizations, and then hurried to board the steamer for the Mainland. He will leave for the East without delay.

The minister, since his arrival in Canada from Japan, has been spending a very busy time meeting the business interests of Canada and discussing with them the opportunities which exist for the extension of trade with the Orient.

When interviewed at the Empress Hotel, Mr. Marler said he had found that the business men of the Dominion were very anxious to trade. On his former visit to the various parts of the country, previous to his leaving to take up his duties as Canadian representative there, he had not the intimate knowledge of what these opportunities were.

BUSY IN EAST
Two busy years had been spent by him and his staff in extending the knowledge, which would be of practical use to the exporters of Canada, and he felt that the business men of the country now had been really informed.

Mrs. Marler accompanied her husband on the tour of Canada and came to Victoria with him yesterday.

W. E. Payne, secretary of the Vancouver Board of Trade, and Hugh Dalton, secretary of the B.C. Division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, with headquarters in Victoria, accompanied the minister to Victoria.

GYROS ENTERTAIN NANAIMO CHILDREN

NANAIMO, Aug. 27.—The Gyro Club entertained the children of Nanaimo district at their No. 2 playground, on Halliburton Street, yesterday afternoon.

President Chris Wright addressed the children and their parents from the bandstand. He gave a brief outline of proposed plans for future development, when the necessary funds were available, saying that with the continued support of Nanaimo citizens and the energetic activities of the Gyro Club members, improvements were soon to be made, such as a roller skating alley circling the playgrounds and other equipment.

The day's programme concluded by the playing of a football game between No. 1 and 2 playgrounds for the Roy Hebdon Cup, which resulted in a 5-5 draw after a half-hour overtime play. The game will be played again on Friday to decide on the winning team.

The following Gyros assisted in conducting the sports: Jack Ryan, Jack Bennett, Roy Hebdon, Bob Leach, Elmer Bradshaw, Bert Kenney and Reginald Burton.

Miss Edith Schofield was the successful winner of the guessing contest. Her guess was 17,910 gallons of water as the contents of the swimming pool. The exact number of gallons is 17,518, as computed by the city engineer.

PLANE NEEDS OVERHAULING

After Flying 7,000 Miles, Lindbergh's Machine Will Get Tuned Up

TOKIO, Aug. 27 (AP).—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh decided today to have the plane which brought him and Mrs. Lindbergh from New York to Japan, completely overhauled. The mechanical work will be done at Kasumigaura naval base, near here, where the couple landed yesterday. The overhauling will begin after the six-day programme of receptions and other functions in their honor, and will be completed while the couple go sightseeing about Japan.

Lindbergh decided upon the overhauling after inspecting the plane and announcing that the motor trouble which delayed them in the Kurile Islands was due to faulty spark plugs, which became fouled with oil.

The colonel said there was nothing seriously wrong with the plane, but that an overhauling was due after its journey of more than 7,000 miles from New York. He indicated he was anxious to get the work under way as soon as possible.

A massed band of 125 pipers, wearing the tartans of twenty-seven Scottish clans, preceded Prince Sukhodaya to the sports field. His Majesty was welcomed by Mr. Justice Walsh, Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta, and immediately raised Saint Andrew's standard, declaring the Highland Gathering open.

King of Siam Attends Opening of Festival

Highland Gathering at Banff Springs Hotel Is Spectacular Event—Scottish Music Predominates—Prominent Singers Take Part

BANFF, Aug. 27.—Escorted by a glittering guard from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Canada's Highland regiments, His Majesty King Prajadhipok of Siam, using his incognito, Prince Sukhodaya, formally opened the fifth annual Highland Gathering and Scottish Music Festival this afternoon.

A massed band of 125 pipers, wearing the tartans of twenty-seven Scottish clans, preceded Prince Sukhodaya from the courtyard of the Banff Springs Hotel piping "The Campbells Are Coming" to the sports field. The Siamese monarch, in sports dress, paraded with Rear Admiral Tharavara Chayant, his excellency Amarat Kridakara, Siamese Minister to the United States, Inspectors Cadiz and Lemaire of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Queen Rambai-Barni, and other members of the royal suite motored to the field.

His Majesty was welcomed by Mr. Justice Walsh, Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta, and immediately raised Saint Andrew's standard, the flag of Scotland and the oldest in the world, declaring the Highland Gathering open.

SCOTTISH MUSIC

Robert Burnett, Scottish baritone, led the throng of kilts Scots in the famous old battle song, "Scots Wha Hae." Pipe Major William Campbell, of New Westminster, who, while piper to Queen Victoria, had played for the father of the present King of Siam, played "The Campbells Are Coming." Mme. Jeanne Duseau, Canada's greatest soprano, sang "Call Her Herring," and others of the well-known Scottish songs were performed by a mixed chorus and string quartet.

The Siamese royal party, with the representatives of the British Crown, left the platform to the march past of the Black Watch, and tonight attended the first concert of the festival in the ballroom of the Banff Springs Hotel.

STAGE PAGEANT AT EXHIBITION

Local Players to Depict Dominion Story in Gay Tab-leaux Nightly

"The Pageant of Canada—Yesterday and Today," which will be performed from 8 to 10 o'clock each evening in the Horse Show Building at the Willows during the Fall Exhibition, is an attempt to show in artistic form, by means of costumed actors and actresses, artificial lighting, and artificial scenery, something of the history of the Dominion from its earliest days to Confederation.

The Horse Show Building lends itself admirably to a display of this nature, there being plenty of floor space for spectators and players. In itself the pageant will be played through rapidly, as the whole entertainment, divided into nine scenes, only lasts forty-five minutes. Local talent has been rehearsing for the past few weeks, and most of the parts are already allotted, according to L. O. Bassani, director and producer.

STAGE PROPERTIES

A fully-rigged Spanish galleon, a prairie schooner wagon, and other original objects will take their place in the arena and add a touch of reality to the pageant.

In the glimpse of Indian life in Canada, which will form the opening number, the part of a typical navigator of sixteenth century days of discovery will be taken by Phyllis Monaghan, while an Indian which doctor will be represented by Mrs. W. Finmore. Bertha Ridland, Peggy Macdougall and Joyce Applegate are three of the young ladies who will enact the role of butterflies for the third scene. This act, which should be very effective on account of the beautiful costumes, visualizes a dream of the Indian which doctor.

Mrs. F. Porter, T. A. Simmons, and Master Hodge will be in the fourth number as a family of pioneers traversing the Western plains. The fifth item will be a musical light, illustrating the spirit of youth in nationhood. The riders include Peggy Brindley, Dorothy Bassani, Irene Macdonald and Norma Porter. In the parade of the natural resources of Canada will be representations by Charles de Macedo and Angelo de Macedo. Prominence will be given to a field of wheat and other things distinctively Canadian.

The nine provinces of the Dominion in the final act will be played by Thelma Birnie, Peggy Brindley, Mary Bryden, Norma Porter, Bertha Ridland, Joan Read, Winnie Varney, and Phyllis Roberts. Canada will be symbolized by Francis Patter, while Kathleen Bone will make a charming Rotary. This last scene is intended to portray the Spirit of Unity from East to West.

A rich widow had married a rakish young fortune hunter. One day when the honeymoon was about over she remarked, as she stood before her mirror: "Sweetheart, don't all these silver threads among the gold make you regret our romantic marriage?"

The youth contemplated her smartly shingled head a moment. "Not a bit," he answered frankly. "I can easily put up with the silver threads for the sake of the gold."

Duncan

At the Sunday morning service at the United Church the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bell, Kamloops, was baptized by Rev. W. F. Burns, receiving the name James Walker. Mr. and Mrs. Bell have been summer visitors with Mrs. Bell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Smith.

Lower Heels Are Popular

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP).—Ever since Cinderella lost her little glass slipper and won a prince, women have paid as much attention to the toe as to the tip of their fashion alouette. No less this year, even with the new little hat trying to capture all imagination.

Fall and Winter shoes are of better quality and more perfectly made than they have been for many seasons. Miss Isabelle Raymond, New York shoe analyst, said today.

Heels are lower. The continental Cuban heel hovering around two inches in height is recommended for street and for daytime wear. Heels for afternoon wear range from 2 to 2 1/2 inches, and evening heels are not much higher.

"The debutante alouch of two seasons ago is decidedly out," she said. "Fashion has been more practical, stand with hips out and stomach in. They stand poised and straight, and wearing the new hats, they perch on their heads coyly."

Daughters of St. George

Daughters of St. George, Princess Patricia's, 238, held its regular meeting recently at Hatt's Hall, W.P. Sister Christy presiding. There was a good attendance of members. It was decided to hold a silver tea at the home of Sister Restall, Herald Street, at 8 o'clock, to which sister and brother lodges are invited. Refreshments were then served and the meeting closed.

CHARMING VOICE MUCH ENJOYED

Mrs. Olive Dundas, Assisted by Francis Gratian and W. H. Davis, Delights Audience

A voice of rare charm, used with great artistry, was heard by those who attended the vocal recital given last evening by Mrs. Olive Dundas, of Hollywood, at the Bishop Cridge Memorial Hall. Assisted by Francis Gratian, violinist, and W. H. Davis, solo pianist, she gave a beautiful and memorable beauty. The gifted singer demonstrated that the Victoria-born artist may sometimes give much greater pleasure than the imported article, for her every note plants an idea in the listener's mind. Her repertoire was a combination of natural loveliness of tone, effortless production, sympathy of expression, clear diction and faultless phrasing. Her manner, too, was entirely without affectation or mannerism, and an easy and relaxed position supplemented the generally happy effect of the finished artist. Those who did not hear Mrs. Dundas certainly missed a great treat.

The pianist, W. H. Davis, opened the programme with Beethoven's Sonata in A flat major, his playing of which stamped him as an accomplished musician. There was impossible execution and fine sense of tone, with good light and shade. In the performance of this long and difficult work, Mr. Davis also proved a very skilled and sensitive accompanist to both vocalist and violinist. Mr. Gratian's violin group comprised three interesting and beautiful compositions, the Brahms Sonata in A major, the "Andante Tranquille," and "Spanish Dance," being a Kreisler transcription for violin of Granados' work.

Mrs. Dundas' two groups offered variety of subject as well as a medium for showing her versatility of expression. In the first group were Saint Saens' "Amour Vieni Aider," two German numbers, Brahms' "Sapphic Ode" and Grieg's "Eros," sung in English. As an encore to this group she gave a pretty Italian song of the sixteenth century. Her second and final group included Schubert's "Ave Maria," the less familiar "Night in the Desert" (Rossi), the pretty-contralto "Little Danseuse" (Novello), which had charming lightness, playfulness and laughter; and Maurice Strakosky's "Time, You Old Gypsy Man," and its encore, the Irish "Fields o' Valley Clare."

SEES RECOVERY IN MINE METAL

Noah A. Timmins Believes Silver and Copper Will Eventually Return

Noah Timmins, controller of the Hollinger and the Noranda mines in Northern Ontario among his many other mining interests, is a firm believer in the gold standard. He has always had a preference for gold-producing properties and might naturally be expected to hold a preference for the gold standard.

Speaking of the present metal situation, however, Mr. Timmins expressed the opinion that silver would recover its place, having its purpose in the monetary affairs of the world. How long the restoration of silver to something of its former relative worth when compared with gold, would be delayed, it was difficult to prophesy, he said.

Among the base metals, Mr. Timmins expected that the first to come back would be lead. Copper, as a metal that had a rather wide use in various lines, should also be coming back shortly. He regarded the latter metal, he pointed out, there were demands for increasing tonnage of copper in countries like Germany, but the tragedy of the situation was that these countries just at the present moment were unable to buy.

For zinc, the mining magnate could not see an early return. It appeared to him that this metal with a large production was doomed to a rather slow recovery.

Mr. Timmins, having transacted the business he had in hand here, left yesterday at noon with Mrs. Timmins for the Mainland by airplane.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

SUN LAMPS USEFUL, BUT GOOD FOOD NECESSARY

One of the hopeful signs of the day is the hopeful manner in which the people are trying to get the benefit of the sun's rays as much as possible. In fact, many are buying the lamps that give the artificial sunlight, so that irrespective of the weather they can get a daily supply of the sun's rays.

Now what about the action of these artificial lamps; are they beneficial? There is no question but that the rays of these lamps, giving what is called ultra violet irradiation, actually increases the number of red corpuscles in the blood, and the blood is the builder of all the tissues, this means that the entire body is strengthened.

Someone has put the whole matter of this irradiation in the words: "It enables or permits the body to use more economically materials present, but not actually being used. In other words, it makes an organism do 100 per cent. for which it is equipped instead of the seventy-five or eighty per cent of work it is doing."

There is one danger about these ultra violet lamps, and that is that many individuals purchase the lamp and expect it to do many things it can't do; it is not a cure-all device.

As one of our prominent editorial writers aptly says: "All the sunlight in the world will not be able to construct the lime in the bone if there is not the material present to form bone."

Similarly with the strengthening of the blood, while experiments showed that the number of red corpuscles could be increased from ten to nineteen per cent, nevertheless, where there were repeated hemorrhages (bleeding) the ultra violet rays were not able to "manufacture" enough material to fill these cells with haemoglobin (iron, phosphorus, etc.). It was only by the use of powerful foods—liver, hog's stomach, beef and so forth.

Investigation shows that appropriate food played a far more decisive part than the use of the ultra violet rays in completing the processes that result in the production of a sufficient number of normal red cells. Even sunlight itself, and the ultra violet rays of these artificial lamps cannot replace food as a blood builder.

Remember, then, that these lamps act as does sunlight, and make the materials in you do their best. However, it is up to you to see that the blood gets the best materials—foods on which to work.

Librarians See Great Interest in Reading

Circulation Figures Show Marked Increase During Economic Depression—Lists Prepared to Aid Readers in Quest for Knowledge

Statistics show that circulation has increased in public libraries all over the continent of North America since this time last year, and authorities state that the present financial and economic depression is largely responsible for this fact. It is significant that the circulation at the Victoria Public Library has increased by 38,043 over the same period last year, from January till the end of July.

Due to the present economic conditions, men are spending their leisure hours in public libraries in an effort to prepare themselves for special lines of work, now that difficulties give them time to further qualify for better jobs when jobs are again available; merely to while away the long hours; to read the books that they have for years promised themselves the pleasure of reading; or as a refuge from winter cold or spring dampness.

CROWDED READING-ROOMS
Whatever the motive that leads men to public libraries, the result is apparent, and the result is crowded reading-rooms and soaring circulation figures. The reading-rooms in some cities have been so overcrowded that special rules have been formulated to prevent those not in business from carrying on such exhaustive research that the time of assistants is used in a hunt for elusive material.

Although public libraries were not built as shelter or places of amusement, they were founded on a definite policy of helpfulness, and no library authority has yet been heard from who has objected to giving additional reading services to the unemployed.

HELPFUL LISTS
As a definite aid to constructive and helpful reading, the Victoria Public Library has collected books dealing with certain subjects and has listed them under such headings as art, radio, interior decoration, etc., so that readers may have all the available material at hand in the most efficient manner.

It is noticed that new readers include men and women who have never before been members of libraries, and their attention is not turned solely upon the fiction shelves. They are reading good books, books which should fulfill a definite purpose. Many people are showing interest in unemployment insurance, the role and kindred subjects; students are eagerly seeking material on the machine age, over-production and allied subjects for purposes of school and college degrees.

It is often noticed that certain books are difficult to obtain, owing to their popularity, yet the library rejoices in the increased interest in reading.

Pretty Wedding in Nanaimo

NANAIMO, Aug. 27.—In the Hall-burton Street United Church at 12:30 o'clock yesterday noon, amid a profusion of flowers and greenery, the marriage took place of Miss Annie Johnstone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnstone, Rosamund Avenue, to Mr. William Gordon, son of Mrs. T. Gordon, of Lady-smith. Rev. John McTurk officiated.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father and looked charming in a gown of white georgette falling in folds almost covering the white mottled slippers which she wore, and showing tips of Char-lotte lace at the bottom. Her long bridal veil of sheer Venetian lace, with embroidered ends, was caught at the top of her head with a circle of orange blossoms, falling gracefully over her shoulders, forming a train at the back. A shower bouquet of white heather and Ophelia roses completed her ensemble.

BRIDESMAID
Her sister, Miss Laura Johnstone, was the bridesmaid, and was gowned in a smart creation of pale green georgette fashioned much on the same lines of the bride's gown. Her hair was of silk mohair and a pale green shade. Her bouquet was of pale pink carnations and pink gladioli.

Mr. Thomas Gordon, of Lady-smith, supported the groom. During the signing of the register Miss Nora Black gave a lovely rendition of "At Dawning."

Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom were repaired to the bride's former home, where a reception was held. The guests were received by the mothers of the bride and groom.

BRIDE'S TABLE
One of the main features of the bride's table was a three-tier cake. The groom's gift to the bride was a fawn leather purse; to the bridesmaid, a leather portfolio; to the soloist, a silver vase.

The happy couple left, on the 2:15 o'clock boat for a motor trip to the Cariboo country, for which the bride donned a smart ensemble of fawn velour, with French hat and slippers to match. After their honeymoon they will reside on Newcastle Townsite near.

Nanaimo
Rev. Peter Kelly, of Bella Coola, came over from Vancouver yesterday evening on the late boat on a visit to friends in town. Mr. Kelly is a former Nanaimo resident.

NEW SOUTH WALES BILL MADE LAW

Issue of $50,000,000 Debentures Will Allow Reopening of Government Institution

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 27 (CP).—The Legislative Council of New South Wales today passed the Government's Savings Bank Bill, with two amendments, a few hours after it had been given third reading by the Legislative Assembly.

Designed to provide for the reopening of the state institution, which closed its doors in April, the bill empowers a board of commissioners to issue debentures to the limit of $50,000,000 in order to gain funds for the bank's operations.

One of today's amendments allowed depositors to assign their old accounts; the other limits the suspension of the right of depositors to receive payments of old accounts to the period ending December 31, 1933.

Just Roamin' Around

BY TWO ROVERS

A friend of ours, who knows our love for the history of the province and our interest in the romantic side of that same most fascinating history, called us into his office the other day.

Rover, as usual, led the way and straightway made friends with our friend's "stenog," who also made friends with him.

Meanwhile, I was shown a beautiful, bound, small, red cloth covered booklet, in splendid preservation, of "Views of British Columbia," belonging to an estate being wound up. I am going to describe it, hoping that some of those who still remember the old days—in Victoria and New Westminster—will be sufficiently interested to see it for themselves. Needless to say, the booklet is out of print these fifty years or so. It has a historic charm and value. We hope it may find its way into the Provincial Library for all to see.

A BIRD'S EYE VIEW

First of all, there is a panorama of Victoria, when James Bay was a bay and ran up to the Reformed Church and was crossed by an old wooden bridge. In this bird's-eye view there is but one boat on the waters of James Bay, a small sailing boat. Look at that picture and look at our inner harbor now, with its fine fleets of passenger ferries! It's an eye-opener and no mistake!

Next follows a view of the "George" and a bridge, but not a single dwelling, house or otherwise, in sight, and the description below it reads: "Near Victoria, B.C." It is not so far away now, thanks to B.C. Electric and motor cars, as it was then.

Outside the "Masonic Hall, Victoria," is an Irish laundress car. You never knew there were "laundress" taxis here in the old days! The picture of Port Moody, Pacific Terminal, C.P.R., shows only building and one sailing vessel of three masts. "Up Fraser River, near New Westminster," exhibits a house or two and a landscape, mostly typical. (What a change there is over the years!)

"Columbia Street," same town, shows the store of "C. G. Major General Dealer," with pioneers in costumes of the "70s." As there is no common in the sign, one might think the owner was a major-general, but he was really a general dealer, and the major part of his cognomen was Major. A view of the Colonial Hotel, N.W., shows many equipages of the early days and their modes of transportation. Holy Trinity Church, N.W., evidently only recently erected, has not a tree in sight, but three old-timers are shown going to the building, which proves that piety was one of the proud possessions of the pioneers.

OLD HUDSON BAY FORT

Of course, there is a picture of Nanaimo's boat, the old fort. Then comes a view of "Dunsmuir, Diggle & Co.'s tug Alexander in Victoria Harbor," a side-wheeler steaming past Dallas Road front, and seemingly about to run down a canoe full of Indians. In the foreground of the picture is a single rover, in a very long skirt, having the time of his young life.

That isn't half of the fine delineations. Ladies in garments that resemble Christmas fire-crackers, gentlemen in side whisks, hansom cabs and other quaint vehicles, all make this little booklet too fascinating for words.

But the gem of the collection is the picture of T. N. Hibben's store, next to the old Foresters' Hall, with a standard street clock on the sidewalk, which says it is five minutes past four, and let us hope it is in the afternoon, for we cannot conceive the crowd in front of the building were so sedate and upright at four in the morning.

Pasted into the back of the booklet is an advertisement, which we take the liberty of reproducing, that is, as far as the wording goes:

T. N. HIBBEN & CO.,
Established in 1858

Booksellers and Stationers and General Dealers in All the Branches Connected With

This Line

Both Stable and Fancy
ALSO NAUTICAL BOOKS,
ADMIRALTY CHARTS, EQUIP-
MENTS FOR CIVIL ENVOY-
NEERS, ETC., ETC.

VICTORIA, B.C.

Rover says: "Oh! master, that we had lived here then, for we might have met a civil 'snopner,' equipped with an 'admiralty' shirt."

THE OLD DAYS

We proudly admire the "dudes" and the "mashers" of a day long gone by.

Recalling the prim prudes, the pretty heart-smashers, the hoop-hammered belles of the past, with a sigh!

H. Brynjolfsson Will Defend City Title; Entries Close Today

Uplands Youngster to Start in Defence of Golf Crown Sunday at Colwood—List Nears Sixty Mark—Several Entrants Expected Today

With the big guns of local golf-dom entered, everything is in readiness for the annual city golf championship scramble, which will get started at the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club on Sunday morning with the playing of the thirty-six-hole qualifying round. Up to yesterday, secretary Walter Perry announced that the entry list neared the sixty mark. Several more prominent amateur golfers are expected to place their names with the Colwood secretary before the list closes this evening.

Carrying the burden from the start will be Harold Brynjolfsson, Uplands Golf Club, who captured the title last year by defeating Willard Williams, 2 and 1, after a grueling final test. Brynjolfsson just returned this week from the Canadian amateur tourney at Montreal, and will be one of the favorites when the field is cut loose. To retain his crown, the young Uplands ace will have to be shooting first class golf, as the starting list is one of the strongest in recent years.

MORRISON ENTERED

Among the select will be Bob Morrison, Uplands champion, who also competed in the Dominion meet. Morrison is playing some fine golf and will be hard to beat on the long Colwood layout, which suits his style of play. Bob carried Ross Somerville, Canadian monarch, to the thirteenth green at Montreal before admitting defeat, which is a good indication that his game has improved immensely since last year.

Probably one of the most feared opponents in the group will be Harold

DR. STEWART RE-ELECTED RUGBY HEAD

Prominent Citizen Is Again Chosen as Prexy of Canadian Rugby Team

J.B.A.A. TO RUN VICTORIA SQUAD

Dr. John Stewart was re-elected for the third consecutive year as president of the Victoria Canadian Rugby team at the annual meeting held last night in the board room of H. E. Hanning & Company, View Street. The meeting was the largest in years, thus showing the great interest in the game by the public and players this season.

The team will be run by the J.B.A.A. and is expected to be the strongest entry since the City took over the Canadian code several seasons ago. Besides the election of officers, many new players were introduced to the squad. A special note was made of the forward pass which will be used by the squad when the curtain goes up.

Lieutenant-Governor J. W. Fordham Johnson was chosen as honorary president, while Arthur A. Cox, prominent J.B.A.A. director, was the unanimous choice for the vice-presidency. Dr. Arthur Nash was selected as treasurer, and the directors are Dr. E. W. Book, George Straith, R. B. Wilson, Dr. McEwen and D. Roberts. Ernie Cook was again appointed as coach and general secretary.

The next work of the team will be held on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at the Royal Athletic Park. All players are asked to turn out, as the new players and the forward pass will be tried by the coach.

EASTERN LACROSSE CHAMPIONS MAY NOT MAKE TRIP TO WEST

TORONTO, Aug. 27 (CP).—In its sporting column, The Globe says: "Brampton Excelsior will play against the Montreal Winged Wheelers in a sudden death game to decide the Eastern title at Varsity Stadium on Saturday, and their supporters think that they will qualify to journey West in defence of the Mann Cup. However, there is just a possibility that the trip will not be made. The New Westminster Salmonbellies, who were frustrated last year, are willing to reciprocate only to the extent that seventeen men comprise the Eastern party, and in the event that Brampton excelsior, the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association champions are not at all sure that they will seek further laurels."

THREE U.S. BOATS TO TRY FOR CUP

Horace Dodge Enters Miss Syndicate III—Gar Wood to Have Pair of Starters

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 27.—When Kaye Don, British speed boat king, pilots his Miss England II across the starting line in the first of the Harmsworth Trophy races here a week from next Saturday, he will be representing the United States team of three boats.

Two contenders for a third place in the defending team were named yesterday. Horace E. Dodge, through Bennett Will, announced that the Gold Cup boat, Miss Syndicate III, would enter the race in which Gar Wood, who has held the trophy for seven years previously, named his Miss America VIII, and Miss America IX.

Immediately Wood announced he would also enter Miss America unless Dodge withdrew the Miss Syndicate III. Qualifying trials must be held between that boat and Miss America V. Under the Harmsworth rules, a contesting country may enter three boats.

Although there have been rumors to the contrary, Kaye Don said that Miss England II probably would be the sole British contestant. Reports had it that Miss Marion Carstairs, 14-year-old challenger, might drive a Canadian boat in this year's race. Don said he believed Miss Carstairs would be only a spectator at the races.

Jack Dempsey Serious About Comeback Plans

Former Heavyweight Champion Declares He Will Be Ready for the Best Around December 1—Critics Believe Big Gates Coming Back

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP).—New York, shouted over transcontinental telephone wires today a pair of invitations to Jack Dempsey to return to the metropolis and pick up again the leather padded cudgel that once made him a champion of the fight game.

"I'm not ready yet, but I will be. I'm serious about coming back. Pick the best man you can find for me for some time after December 1."

Immediately James J. Johnston, the promotional thorn in the side of the Garden at the moment, got a line through to Leonard Sachs, Dempsey's secretary and companion, and he heard something like this: "Jack hasn't tied up with the Garden or anyone else. But he's coming back. We're hitting the big trail when he's ready. Then will be open to any and all offers from anyone."

PUBLIC FAVORS NEW GIANT OF ATLANTIC

Victorian, Returning From Europe, Tells of Remarkable Steadiness of Empress of Britain in Heavy Weather—Accommodation and Provisions for Safety Described

Returning from a holiday tour of European countries, a member of The Colonist's editorial staff booked passage on the latest Canadian liner, Empress of Britain, for the voyage from Southampton to Quebec. Becoming acquainted with the ship while crossing the Atlantic, all that had been pictured in advance stories of the ship and her appointments was found to be a long way short of what the beautiful marine creation really stands for—the very finest appointed craft operating on any ocean.

"Canada's new leviathan, the Empress of Britain, has again broken her enviable record. She is the pride of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, of Canada, and the world at large is looking at this great Queen of the Seas, and marveling. Her coming into being was heralded by a shout of praise, for she is not the demerit of the ocean-going traveler. In luxury she has no rival, not even among the leviathans which ply the shipping lanes from the Hudson to the English Channel. She has revolutionized all former ideas of a sea-crossing, and Canada may well be proud of her new achievement. Of her first-class accommodation, hundreds of columns of newspaper have been written, but one must be a passenger to realize how little has been exaggerated concerning her comfort and beauty.

"As the gangway was withdrawn at Southampton docks, the whistles from all the ships in the harbor shouted a farewell greeting, and thousands of colored paper streamers floated from the decks to friends waving on the dock below. On a day of sunshine and under the bluest of Summer skies, she was led forth, and with a solemn dignity befitting her great size headed for Canadian shores.

"As one steps to her deck, all sense of ship is left behind, to be replaced by the thought that one has entered some palatial hotel. Great artists have designed her magnificent series of public rooms, and there is the artistry of such men as Frank Brangwyn, Sir Charles Alton, Sir John Lavery, who has designed and decorated the great ballroom in rose colored feathers which strike a unique note in the decoration; Edmund Dulac, who was responsible for the Cathay lounge; and Heath Robinson, whose imaginative genius has transformed the Knickerbocker Bar into a comedy.

"The swimming pool, with its bordering refreshment cafe, so large and so marvellously decorated and appointed that only the word 'spectacular' comes close to describing it, affords recreation for the sports-lover, and a full-size squash racquet court and open air tennis court, enclosed with wire netting, affords a gallery for spectators, has been built on the upper deck, with the ocean on either side as far as eye can see, while as one moves steadily on at a speed of twenty-four knots an hour. Take a morning walk four times round the promenade deck, and one has covered a mile!

NO VIBRATION
"Large elevators which one up and down, seven floors, and the steadiness, the entire absence of vibration or sound in the lounge rooms make it seem almost impossible to realize that one is not ashore. From time to time, passengers peep from the windows to reassure themselves that they have not landed, returning to their books, games of bridge or other amusements with a smile of satisfaction and a look of amazement on their faces.

"The suites of the first class accommodation are unbelievably luxurious. Many of the staterooms, as they are called, have sitting-rooms, bedrooms, bathrooms and 'showers,' dining-rooms and private deck chairs. The color schemes have been thought out so cleverly that no two are alike, and whether one has chosen the jade and onyx, the gold and silver or the rose and blue, there is a color scheme to suit the taste of the passenger. The smaller staterooms are also most comfortable. Beds replace the old-time side wall bunks, and there is a welcome amount of cupboard and wardrobe space.

PRETEND MONEY
"One particularly attractive department is the children's play room. There is found everything to delight the heart of a child. Teddy bears, rocking horses, dolls houses, a model ship, which was invariably occupied by a potential stowaway, whom his 'customers' toyed with 'pretend' money, returning to Indian wigwams with their purchases. There are also catered for kiddies, and during the afternoon siesta, the nurse tucks up her little charges who take this brief respite from the day's enjoyment to refresh their little minds and bodies.

"The new tourist Third accommodation has revolutionized the more moderate mode of travel, and the staterooms are quite on a par with the first class accommodation of many a ship which has been heretofore looked upon as comfortable. The lounge is arranged with deep stuffed chairs covered with plush, writing tables, an electric fireplace, in which realistic logs burn. There is a grand piano for the amusement of passengers, and one of the two excellent orchestras plays each morning and afternoon at 11 and 4 o'clock. Then there is a special smoking room, a gymnasium, library and children's playroom, the latter not as large as that in the first class, but equally charming.

BEAUTY SALON
"There is no need to look or feel disheveled on board the Empress of Britain. The 'beauty salon,' in charge of expert hairdressers and manicurists, will see to that. It was a surprise when a passenger was overheard to say, 'I can't wait to have my pictures developed in Quebec.' 'No need,' answered the first officer, 'take them to the photographic department,' and in twelve hours' time, the snapshots were developed and printed!

"An afternoon's personally conducted tour through the engine rooms leaves one a little bewildered and completely overwhelmed. Unless one really understands boilers, turbines, screws and the hundred and one devices connected with the running of a giant liner, one can only listen and absorb a little of what one sees. It is all so spacious, so clean and so amazing. Everything seems to run by clockwork, and nobody seems to be doing it. Gone are the old begrimed stokers, the engineers are tidy like well-groomed business men, going about

At the Playhouses

CAPITOL "Mother's Millions," THEATRE which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre, is a remarkable example of a mighty good play transferred almost bodily and in toto to the screen, and with equally good, if not better, results. Howard McKent Barnes wrote the play originally for May Robson's use. Though the reviewer never saw it, it is understood to have been a financial and artistic success for Miss Robson. It was this success which inspired her to use it as a vehicle for her talking picture debut.

COLUMBIA Ronald Colman is THEATRE said to give his finest portrayal in years in "The Devil to Pay," his latest picture now playing at the Columbia Theatre. According to the opinion of his millions of admirers, that is saying considerable. But the story is exactly the type that best fits the Colman personality, and the popular star takes full advantage of the opportunity.

COLISEUM Effective comedy THEATRE characterization to the development of such a story as "Plunder," seems to come naturally from the polished Aldwych company, again responsible in this British and Dominion's farce for a diverting picture, jeweled in several holes. "Plunder" is now showing at the Coliseum Theatre.

FAMOUS COMEDY TEAM COMING IN "POLITICS"

"Noiseless stairs" are the latest capitulation to the exigencies of sound recording in the studios.

During the filming of "Politics," Marie Dressler's first Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring production, which will come tomorrow to the Dominion Theatre for one entire week, experiments were made with noiseless staircases on stairs to control noises there, and so successful were they that the stairs to all the monitor rooms on the studio's big sound stages were so equipped. This avoids accidental noises on sets.

The new picture, a vivid comedy-drama of civil life, tells the story of a woman who, aroused by corrupt conditions in a small town, organizes the feminine vote, runs for mayor, and cleans up the place. Miss Dressler plays the mayoralty candidate, with Polly Moran as her campaign manager.

HOW IT CAME TO BE "SIRLOIN"

There is a delightful story to the effect that once upon a time an English king, in gustatory appreciation of the delicacy we know as sirloin, conferred knighthood upon a lot of beef—and that ever after it lived happily under the name of sirloin (Sir Lo-in).

It may be painful to some of us to have this beautiful fairy tale debunked, but truth is ruthless and respects neither tradition nor theory.

Had this incident really occurred ippones

the probability is that the word sirloin would have been stillborn, for slang seldom outlives the occasion of its creation. It is a rare etymological tid-bit indeed that so tickles our intellectual palate as to become a permanent feature of our language menu.

Sirloin is really a misspelling of "sirloin" (sir meaning above). Hence the word is self-explanatory.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

THE STUFF THAT GAMES ARE MADE OF

Every bridge player knows that making of games quite often rests on some action of the adversaries. An unwise choice of a lead or the inadvisable return of a suit frequently spells the difference between a made contract and a lost one.

Opening leads with weak hands are generally matters of particular difficulty. It is a hard choice that the senior adversary faces when he has to make a selection of a lead when all are bad. In these conditions, leading from cards in sequence, that is, such combinations as 10 9 8, when partner has done nothing to suggest a better lead, is generally considered the course best calculated to preserve the trick-taking possibilities of the defensive hands. Under these conditions, at best, the burden of the lead is an evil, and who can blame a player if instead of choosing the lesser evil he unwittingly selects the greater.

In a team duplicate match in New York recently, in which some of the strongest combinations participated in preparation for the Summer Congress of the American Bridge League, the hand below presented to many teams questions of particular difficulty, both as regards the bidding and the choice of an opening lead.

Both sides were vulnerable; South was the dealer.

The Bidding:

Pass Pass Pass Pass

1.—If North and South were not vulnerable, South would have an opening bid of one diamond. On account, however, of the lack of playing-tricks it is a better pass vulnerable.

2.—With a bidding partner and passing opponents, East has a hand of very considerable strength and an alternative bid might have been two no-trump, but the showing of the biddable suit generally will bring better results. Game at no-trump can be made on the hand although the play is not particularly easy through a lack of entries in the East hand.

3.—South was well satisfied now with his original pass and was anxious that East and West reach a game declaration at hearts or diamonds. The latter, of course, is highly improbable.

4.—West's hand is not strong enough to force, but he shows the unusual strength of his heart suit by a jump rebid.

5.—If West is strong enough to bid three hearts, showing a very strong trump suit, East reasoned his hand justified a raise to game. 6. South's double is bad. Its success is predicated on a lead which he has no assurance will be made, namely, a lead through the diamond suit in which he holds a major tenace.

7.—East's redouble has as a foundation the probability that a poorly guarded trump trick in the South hand could be led through and captured, as one of his two trumps was an honor. It was a team match in which victory rested on securing the highest possible score on the hand, and if game could be made, its redoubled value would assure a victory for the team on that hand.

North, with nothing but infer-polity?

ences to guide him, did not have easy choice of an opening lead. Actually, the opening of the diamond would have made game impossible as it would have prevented the plan of play upon which West later decided. The club appeared to offer the safest lead, and so North selected the club 10. The card was ducked in the dummy and South also refused to cover, West winning with the Knave. While the opening lead helped, it was still a long way from game for the player holding the West cards. A small spade was led and the Knave finessed. South won with the Queen and immediately returned the spade in order to get out of the responsibility of the lead at this time. West had not expected to win more than one trick in the spade suit, but was laying the groundwork for the future play of the hand. If South held the cards he should have to justify even a sporting double. East's ten of hearts was led through and permitted to hold the trick. The hearts were continued until South's queen was captured. This successfully completed the first part of West's campaign.

In order to force discards West led out both of his remaining trumps. This was based upon the hope that South, if he held a spade, would be forced to play it in order to protect the club king, which seemed to be placed in his hand, and also the assumed major tenace in diamonds. If West's assumption that South held the diamond ace queen and the club king and one small card was correct, then the contract could be made. It was a chance worth playing for. At West's tenth turn to play he held the seven of spades, the two of diamonds and ace seven of clubs. In the East hand were the king, knave of diamonds and queen four of clubs. West led his deuce of diamonds. North followed, the knave was put up and South won with the queen, then cashed the diamond ace. South now led a small club, but realized that the game was up. West led the club run to his queen, and returned the remaining club to the ace.

West's plan of campaign could have gone wrong, but if it did not work, there was present no better alternative. When a choice is to be made between two courses of action, the one that offers the better chance of success should be chosen and then with the plan of campaign formed, unless new facts are developed during the play to make its revision necessary, it is wise to stick to it.

TODAY'S POINTER

Bidding and Playing Valuation

Bidding valuation is the count of expected winners and losers at a specified bid. The expected winners are called playing-tricks and consist of tricks won with honors and low cards in long or short suits. Both the bidding and play deal with tricks. The essential difference between a bid and a play is that the former deals with tricks in the abstract while the latter deals with tricks as actually developed. Bidding is a mental play which is repeated on a more concrete basis after the dummy goes down. It follows that in order to make successfully any bid it must be visualized in terms of playing tricks. Each bid must be played over mentally as though the dummy were down.

An insurance agent had outstayed his welcome in a merchant's office, and took no notice of the many and broad hints that he was making himself a nuisance. At last his victim got him by the scruff of the neck and pitched him downstairs. The man got up, retrieved his hat, and turning to the man at the top of the stairs, he said calmly, "Joking apart, what about that insurance North, with nothing but infer-polity?"
